with Dara Wissinger

Interview and resume skills

Writing an application for an internship, scholarship or a new job requires good preparation, because the competition is enormous these days. This workshop will explain how best to present yourself by highlighting different ways to skillfully bring your own individual strengths and motivations to the forefront. Students will learn what their 'true colors' are and how best to apply this within their resume as well as in an interview. Resumes and CVs will be reviewed as well as interview etiquette before students participate in a mock interview with each other. This workshop aims to give students the basic tools and confidence needed to prepare for their next academic endeavor or career move.
